FINISHES

GRANITE COUNTERTOPS

POLISHED GRANITE (MIRROR FINISH)

Polished granite is most commonly used for kitchen countertops. It has a sparkling appearance that highlights all the colours, crystals and grains of the stone.

Also, granite holds a high-gloss mirror polish very well. It makes the stone appear darker and the colour look much richer, compared to the raw stone.

FLAMED GRANITE (ROUGH FINISH)

A flamed granite countertop can instil an earthy vibe to the kitchen. Such countertops are rough, have a faded look and a highly textured appearance that replicates the look of natural stone.

HONED GRANITE (SATIN/MATTE FINISH)

A honed finish granite surface is non-reflective and has a satin or matte finish. The less shimmering look of the countertop can give the kitchen a modern appeal.

BENEFITS OF GRANITE COUNTERTOPS

Sanitary Surfaces - With the application of a high-quality sealant, you can enjoy a non-porous and highly hypoallergenic surface. You can enjoy peace of mind knowing your surfaces won't harbor odors, bacteria, viruses, or other harmful microbes.

Durable - Compared to alternative materials like marble, granite is incredibly hard. Granite countertops are less likely to be chipped, cracked, or scratched. In fact, your granite countertops are more likely to dull your knives than be scratched by them.

Little-to-Low Maintenance - Granite countertops needs very little when it comes to upkeep and maintenance. A high-quality sealant should be applied during countertop installation. You'll need to have your sealant re-applied periodically.

GRANITES MONUMENTS

Granite is one of the most popular materials for stone countertops. Well-known for their strength, durability and appearance, granite countertops are low maintenance, only requiring periodic sealing. The wide range of granite countertop colors also adds to their popularity. You can find them in variations of black, white, blue, grey, yellow, gold, green, red and brown. And, you'll find many different options when it comes to patterns as well. We regularly inventory hundreds of granite slabs, which you can experience in person at our showroom.
